

Aquatec Maxcon is dedicated to research & development and has supplied several pilot plants for customers to do the same.

Aquatec Maxcon can design and supply a pilot plant suitable for your specific testing requirements, with purchase and lease options available.

As part of our commitment to R&D, Aquatec Maxcon has built and operates (in Ipswich, Queensland), the only aeration test tanks in Australasia and uses this regularly to test new developments and proposed designs. It has been demonstrated that the results from this test facility correlated extremely well with full scale on-site performance of the actual plant. As such, most organisations will, rather than undertake site SOTR testing at the end of the project, accept the results of our test tank.